DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 12, 13 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Questad et al. U.S. Patent 6,084,299 A.

Questad et al. discloses a semiconductor package 72, comprising; a relatively thin substrate epoxy 74 attached to a packaging lead frame substrate 78; a relatively thick semiconductor epoxy 76 attached to a semiconductor 80, wherein said relatively thin substrate epoxy 74 and said relatively thick semiconductor epoxy 76 are attached to one another forming a stack including said packaging substrate 78, said substrate epoxy 74, said semiconductor epoxy 76, and said semiconductor 80; and a housing enclosing said package (see figure 4a). Questad et al. also discloses the thick semiconductor epoxy being approximately 2.5 times or more as thick as said thin substrate epoxy (see figure 4a).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 2812

6. Claims 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Questad et al. U.S. Patent 6,084,299 A.

Questad et al. is applied as above in paragraph 2 but lacks anticipation on disclosing thickness of 5mils or more for the thick semiconductor epoxy and thickness of 2 mils or less for the thin substrate epoxy. Questad et al. discloses that any desire thickness may be used for the epoxy layers (see column 5, lines 55-62), therefore, it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skills in the art at the time the invention was made to select a thickness of 5 mils or more for the thick semiconductor epoxy or a thickness of 2 mils or less for the thin substrate epoxy in the primary reference of Questad et al. by performing routine experimentation in order to obtain an optimum thickness value ratio since Questad et al. already suggest using any desire thickness.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Aoki et al., Berg et al., Murayama, Hoffmeyer et al., Kitahara, Newman, Yamaji et al, and MacQuarrie et al. disclosed semiconductor packages comprising semiconductor devices bonded to package substrates using epoxies having different thickness.
